DANGER HAS PASSED LIKE MRS. NATION

Bulletins From the King's Bedside are Quite Favorable Today.

His Improvement Continues and Believed Danger Period is Passed.

GREAT REJOICING IN LONDON

London, June 27.—The reports from the king's bedside today are very reassuring, and it is given out that it is believed the danger period is about passed. The bulletins issued are all of the most reassuring nature, and have greatly encouraged the people throughout the kingdom.

The king complains of pain in the wound made by the surgeon's knife. The doctors remain in constant attendance. Otherwise all reports from the royal sick chamber are favorable. The king's appetite is good and he enjoyed a brief visit from his grandchildren last evening.

If his majesty recovers sufficiently to bear the fatigue of the coronation ceremony, preparations for it are not likely to be made on so elaborate a scale as has just been the case, owing to the fact that owners of stands and tradesmen of all descriptions have been so severely hit by the present postponement.

It is quite conceivable that his majesty will decide to forego the coronation ceremony.

In the medical profession there are not wanting opinions, which, so far from approving the course of action of the king, criticize it severely. In the first place, it is asserted that they knew at least ten days ago there was no probability that the king would be able to undergo the ordeal of the coronation. Had public notification been made at the time it would have saved thousands and thousands of pounds which have been spent in useless decorations and preparations.

But this afternoon several practitioners were even more severe. According to well authenticated reports, the king has been allowed to sit up in bed and read newspapers, also that, besides the queen, who is in the sick-room a great part of the time, his majesty had seen and talked to the prince of Wales, and his three daughters.

NEW COMMANDER.

A PENNSYLVANIA MAN TO GO TO LEXINGTON.

Washington, June 27.—By direction of the president, Captain George L. OUR CLAIM GOOD AS GOLD.

Frankfort, June 27.—A telegram from Captain C. C. Calhoun, at Washington, to Adjutant General Murray says that the failure of the Kentucky war claim to be tacked onto the general deficiency bill simply means delay, and that the claim is "good as gold."

WANTS TO BE AUDITOR.

Frankfort, June 27.—Hon. John W. Gayle, of Owenton, announces that he is making an active canvass for the Democratic nomination of auditor and that he would not be opposed to a primary if it were called early.

PRESIDENT BACK

IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, June 27.—President Roosevelt and party arrived in Washington on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad this morning at 10:35.

THE WOMAN LOCATED.

MRS. HUNT FOUND IN MISSOURI AND BROUGHT TO KENTUCKY.

Livingston county officers were in the city yesterday with Nancy Jane Stone, the woman who gave the Paducah officers an account of the alleged murder of Lee Johnson, of Loma, Livingston county, at Carrsville several years ago. After the woman told her story here to Captain Bailey and it was reported to Livingston county officers, they set out to locate the woman, who was on a shantyboat. They found her somewhere below, and brought her back through Paducah en route to Smithland. It is not known what the result of her capture is.

Citizens' Savings Bank, 34 & Broadway

YOUR FORTUNE'S FOUNDATION.

Is laid when you start a savings account. It makes little difference how much in wages you earn. It is the amount that you save that counts.

We have heard it preached from infancy that we should lay aside a few pennies every day, and no doubt we have all resolved to do so—some day. Now if you have one of our Home Savings Banks you can put in your dollar or quarter, or whatever it may be, and you can't get it out until you come to us for the key. In this way you will form the Savings Habit, and soon learn to save money. Then you are on the high road to wealth. Come, let us fit you out with one of these banks. We pay as much attention to the small account as we do to the large ones.

THOSE CIGARETTES LAST OF JESSE JAMES

It Will be Difficult to Purchase Them Soon.

All the Cigar Stores in Paducah and Many Groceries Affected by the New Law.

PROFITS ARE CUT OFF

After Tuesday cigarette smokers in Paducah will find it a hard matter to purchase their favorite brand of "cigar tacks" where they have usually been on sale.

The cause of this is the revenue bill, which was passed by the last legislature and which becomes a law on the first day of July.

This bill provides for an increase in the tax on the sale of cigarettes of $10 for retailers and $100 for wholesale houses. This will affect all the cigar stores in the city, 95 per cent of the saloons and groceries and nearly all the drug stores.

Whether or not the new tax will raise the price of cigarettes to the consumer it is impossible to say, but if this is not the result of the increase a large number—very probable a large majority—of the retail dealers will be forced to abandon their sale entirely.

The profit on cigarettes has never been large, and since the beginning of the era of combinations or trusts it has constantly been decreasing. This latest tax comes in the nature of the last straw, and a number of dealers have already abandoned the sale of cigarettes, while a larger number will not apply for a license on next Tuesday.

The wholesale dealer buys the most popular brands of cigarettes at $3.70 per thousand, and sells them to the retailers at $4—a profit of less than 10 per cent. The smoker buys them at the rate of $5 per thousand.

At this rate the profit is not great, and it is cut still lower by the additional tax. It is also a fact that the sale of cigarettes is growing less every year. The dealers ascribe this to the fact that smokers are gradually learning to make their own cigarettes.

The decrease in sales because of this fact is probably as great as 30 per cent within the last two years.

The Turkish cigarette has also become an important factor in the trade and many of them are being sold in Paducah annually.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE

A MEETING TO BE HELD IN LOUISVILLE THIS WEEK.

Louisville, June 27.—Mr. C. M. Barnett, chairman of the Republican state central committee, will issue a call this week for a meeting of the committee to be held some time between July 1 and 15. The object of the meeting will be to nominate a Republican to serve as a member of the state board of election commissioners.

Judge James C. Wright of Newport is the present Republican commissioner, and he will be renominated, providing he is not nominated by the Republicans of his district for appellate judge. If he should be the nominee for the judgeship he will be ineligible to serve as election commissioner.

Mr. Barnett said that the committee would discuss the appellate and congressional races.

A MINE OPERAT-

ORS' MEETING.

Mr. William Eades left today for Louisville, where there is tomorrow to be a meeting of mine operators of Kentucky to consider important matters. The miners hold a meeting at Indianapolis the 16th of July to decide the question of a sympathetic strike to assist the anthracite miners.

Mr. William Cox, an engineer of the Cotton Belt road, of Pine Bluff, Ark., is in the city, the guest of Mr. Lloyd Grimes, the popular I. C. engineer.

Sunday the Body Will be Moved to Kearney Cemetery.

The Grave Has Been Jealously Guarded By a Sorrowing Mother for Many Years.

WILL BE PLACED BY HIS WIFE.

The body of Jesse James will be removed next Sunday from where it now reposes in the yard of his mother, Mrs. Zilda Samuels, in Clay county, to the Kearney cemetery, where the James family owns a private lot.

The re-interment ceremonies will be in charge of Frank James, who is now at Kearney. The pallbearers will be Bill Gregg, Frank Gregg, Slim Whittsett, Ill George Hicks and George Warren Welch, all of whom were companions of Jesse James before and during the Civil War.

After the killing of Jesse James by Bob Ford at St. Joseph, Mo., the body of the famous Missouri guerrilla chief was turned over to relatives and taken back to Clay county to the old home of the James boys, where so many scenes of their eventful career had been enacted.

In a flower garden on the Samuels farm, just outside the window where the mother could command a view of his last resting place, the bandit's grave was made, and the mound beneath which his bullet-scarred body has moldered has been the object of daily pilgrimages from that day to this.

Thousands of persons have visited the grave out of curiosity, but at frequent intervals friends of the dead man, who knew him in the stirring times during and just after the Civil War, have gone there in all sincerity to pay homage to his memory.

Faithful vigil has been kept through all the years that have passed by the mother, who has guarded jealously the rustic tomb of her boy, and every day when there were flowers to be gathered from the little garden feeble hands have placed upon the hill of dirt a tribute of love.

Recently the wife of Jesse James died at Kansas City, and her body was buried at Kearney. The two will be placed side by side, and a monument erected over them by the younger Jesse, who is successfully engaged in business at Kansas City, and who, it is understood, desired the removal of his father's body.

Mrs. Samuels, the mother of the James boys, has grown very feeble, and the responsibilities of the farm have become too great for her. When the body of her boy has been removed it is possible that she will bid farewell to the old home place, where she has lived for more than fifty years.

Kearney is a small town in Clay county, on the Burlington railroad. It is the nearest postoffice to the Samuels homestead, and only a few miles distant.

RISE IS COMING.

HEAVY RAINS FLOOD THE UPPER OHIO TRIBUTARIES.

Cincinnati, June 27.—Reports from the upper Ohio river show an unusual rainfall, the greatest, 3.08, being at Point Pleasant, W. Va. At Gallipolis, O., railway and other bridges were swept away together with much roadway. At Ripley, O., the Methodist church lost its spire and was badly damaged.

At Stringtown, O., there was a waterspout.

Ironston, O., June 27.—A cloudburst at Polkadotte washed away two stores, a warehouse and the postoffice. Much damage is reported in the Symmes creek valley.

Mr. C. F. Knw, chief clerk to Master Mechanic Barton, is in Centralia, where he was formerly in the employ of the road, winding up his business. He will return today.

CONSTIPATED BOWELS.

To have good health, the body should be kept in a laxative condition and the bowels moved at least once a day, so that all the poisonous wastes are expelled daily. Mr. G. L. Edwards, 142 N. Main St., Wichita, Kansas, writes: "I have used Irtine to regulate the liver and bowels for the past ten years, and found it a reliable remedy." 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

TRANSFERRED TO

THE FEDERAL COURT. The case of T. H. Mann against E. Lagerbach and A. J. Morton in the Livingston circuit court for the annulment of a lease on mining lands in that county, has been transferred to the federal court here and will come up for trial in November.

TAX ON BABIES.

Extreme hot weather is a great tax upon the digestive power of babies; when pany and feeble they should be given a few doses of White's Cream Vaseline, the children's tonic. It will stimulate and facilitate the digestion of their food, so that they soon become strong, healthy and active. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

THE SUN'S PUZZLE PICTURE.

LITTLE BO-PEEP, FIND ONE OF HER SHEEP?

A NEW KENTUCKY NOVEL.

"The Love Story of Abner Stone" is a new book by a Kentuckian that is receiving some very favorable press comments.

It is a story of Kentucky life in the early sixties, but has no echo of war. It is a love pastoral, and has been compared to Allen's "Kentucky Cardinal." It is evidently written by a tree lover of nature, one who has lived near to her heart, and knows her secrets, and all who love her will enjoy the communing with her. There is nothing strenuous about the book. "Did you ever lazy along a river-bank in May, and just live, and nish and smoke, and do nothing else?" this hero asks, and that is quite characteristic of the book.

The story opens in Louisville, but the author does not keep you there long and the chief view you have of the city is from the window of a boarding house on Chestnut street, and as the hero takes his daily stroll.

He is a quiet, methodical man of 45, who lives only for his books and nature, and cares little for the people about him. The rest of the story is laid in Washington county, eight miles from Springfield, and gives a charming idea of the beauty of the Bluegrass region. It is the record of a quiet, tranquil life, that is not without its charm. There is the odor of the honeysuckle and jessamine about it, and the song of the mockingbird is in your ears. It is a simple, tender little love story and when you have read it and have realized the true beauty and sunshine of Salome, you are the better able to understand this from the proface:

"It seems a little strange that I, Abner Stone, now verging upon my seventieth year, should bring pen, ink and paper before me with the avowed purpose of setting down the love story of my life, which I had thought locked fast in my heart forever. A thing very sacred to me; of the world, it is true, yet still apart from it, the blessed memory of it all has abode in my breast with the unfading distinctness of an old picture done in oils, and has brightened the years I have thus far lived on the shadowed slope of life. And now has come the firm belief that the world may be made better by the telling of this story—as my life has been made better by having lived it—and so I shall essay the brief and simple task before my fingers have grown too stiff to hold the pen, trusting that some printer of books will be good enough to put my story into a little volume for all who care to read. And I, as I pursue the work which I have appointed unto myself, shall again stroll through the meadows and forests of dear Kentucky, shall tread her dusty highways under the spell of a bygone June, and shall sit within the portals of an old home whose floors are now pressed by an alien foot."

The Edwin Anteor Carille Litsey was born in 1871 in Kentucky and lived for seven years in the county where the scenes in the "The Love Story of Abner Stone" are laid. His literary taste developed at an early age. When he wanted to write his first article for a local paper he had no stationery. He killed a cat for an old lady, thereby receiving a dime, with which he purchased writing paper. Leslie's Monthly for January opened with his article on "Kentucky Fends and Their Causes;" to secure material for this he took a tour through the worst districts of the state. From the beginning he has struggled in the face of obstacles and has been misaid by older or more experienced heads.

The book is published by A. B. Barnes and Co., of New York, and is very attractively gotten up, with wide margin and artistic cover.

DAILY THOUGHT.

God's blessings on a man's honest life will be worth more than the whole world's wealth.

—Dr. Hespworth.

THE WEATHER.

Showers tonight and Saturday.

Metropolis is after the winter headquarters of a circus. We might give her Buckskin Bill if we can induce it to abandon Paducah at the close of the season.

Dog catching is proving quite profitable for those Paducah youngsters who have been playing "Buckskin Bill" and are proficient in the use of the lasso.

Ninety soldiers in the Philippines died from cholera as a result of drinking water. They would doubtless agree with the Kentucky colonel that water is a dangerous thing.

The Populists of Kansas are in open rebellion because the party has gone over bag and baggage to the Democrats. It seems that even the Populists have a little pride left.

The Minnesota Democrats have expressed "admiration" for Colonel W. J. Bryau, but that is the best they can do for him. None of the conventions are venturing to endorse him.

The Virginia constitutional convention has finally adjourned sine die. It had been in session long enough to have drawn all the money in the treasury, and all for the sake of disfranchising a few negroes.

The Democrats of Pennsylvania seem to realize the helplessness of fighting the next campaign on national issues, and state issues alone will be used. The platform adopted makes no reference to national issues.

Mayor Holden of Zanesville, Ohio, can now fully appreciate the fact that "a shoemaker should stick to his last." He was yesterday fined $100 for contempt of police court. It seems he was laboring under the impression that he was running the court, and the judge decided to the contrary, having the chief of police put him out.

The number of immigrants being deported is unusually large, because an unusually large number have been found to be undesirable citizens. If they were all as ignorant as the man who was attired in female garb and tried to hire out as a cook, and when detected claimed he always thought he was a girl, it is likely the bureau of immigration was fully justified in turning them back.

The coronation honors are receiving much comment from the press. While Gilbert Parker, Conan Doyle and other writers have been knighted, Rudyard Kipling is ignored. Burnand, editor of Punch, is knighted, which is taken by some of our own humorists to be conclusive evidence that Punch is not a comic paper, or else the English do not appreciate its humor, for caricaturists, humorists and comedians are never recognized officially in England. The consensus of opinion is that a great deal of honest merit was overlooked in the distribution of coronation honors.

A committee of the general council should notify the sanitary inspectors of the filthy condition of some of the gutters in the business and residence portion of the city. These gutters swarm in many places with countless organisms that produce disease and contaminate the atmosphere for blocks. Some of the gutters are so offensive that it is an ordeal to pass them. There is no excuse for it. Although people in Paducah are not compelled to connect with the sewerage, they can by law be prevented from creating or maintaining a public nuisance, or prosecuted for it if they do.

The Ohio legislature has caused no little confusion. The supreme court has just decided that the Cleveland city government is unconstitutional, and also a special law enacted for the city of Toledo, taking the control of the police out of the hands of Mayor Jones. The court, in the Trauger case directs Governor Nash to appoint a lieutenant governor. Lieutenant Governor Nippert was appointed probate judge of Hamilton county, and President Pro Tem Archer of the senate was supposed to succeed to the lieutenant governorship. The contention of Trauger that there is a vacancy in the office is sustained.

Attention is called to the communication elsewhere touching on the dog question. It prompts the friend of the dog to again protest against such cruel and unnecessary methods as have been adopted by the city authorities to thin out the dogs, or compel owners to pay the tax required, whichever the object is. It is very clear that the only successful way to enforce the dog law is to warrant owners for failing to pay the license, and sue them in the police court. A fine will make them wish they had paid their license at the proper time, teach them to pay it more promptly next time and serve as an example to other delinquents and induce them to pay up. If the city authorities would pay more attention to getting rid of the cow and less to the dog, the welfare of the people would not suffer so much.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS ASSOCIATES.

(Louisville Post.)

We should like to have every American read the American president's tribute to those American public servants, General Wood, Judge Taft, and Elihu Root. Every word, we know, is deserved, and it is fitly spoken.

Comment can add nothing to what the president has said, but we wish to call attention to the fact that the president pays this tribute to men selected by his predecessor for their high positions. He is not claiming credit for his own appointees; they remain with him at his earnest request; but these selections were made by President McKinley.

This, it seems to us, adds value to praise. The people join their president in honoring these men, and in honoring them we honor the president, who defends them against the attacks of malignant partisans. It is well to have a generous man in a high place. Surely we must all feel, as we read the president's words, that at a critical moment our public affairs are in competent hands. The people want no change.

Y. M. O. A. MEETING AT GREENVILLE.

Secretary Escott of the local Y. M. O. A. left at noon for Greenville to attend the convention of the Muhlenberg county Y. M. O. A.

Secretary Escott will read a paper before the meeting on boys' work in the association, and will also have charge of the boys' meeting Sunday afternoon. The convention begins this afternoon, and holds session until Sunday night. Secretary Escott will remain there during the entire session.

VICTIMS INCREASE

Marshal Crow is Paying Out Cash for Dogs.

Thus Far Only Three Animals Have Been Redeemed by Their Owners.

Marshal James Crow says that he is at last "up against it." Yesterday his dog catchers secured 50 dogs and only three have been redeemed since the boys started on their crusade. Today they are rounding them up in great numbers, and will likely have more than were caught yesterday. The number of dog licenses issued this year will be about 250 tonight, about 226 having been issued up until noon today.

Yesterday there were ten licenses paid and Wednesday 24 animals were tagged. So far today over 20 have come up and paid for their dogs and before the day is over twice that number will have paid, it is estimated.

The dog question seems to be arousing almost as much interest as the cow question did two weeks ago. The dog has his friends, and when a cage of them was taken down the street last night towards the pond in the northern end of the city, many expressions of sympathy for poor Dog Tray were heard. It reminded people of the "Reign of Terror" of history to see the helpless canines being hauled away in wagons towards the slaughter. They are not fed nor given water before they are killed, it is understood, and before death the most peaceful among them becomes dangerously ferocious.

There is a great deal of indignation among lovers of the dog over the city's way of solving the dog problem. Under Mayor Lang's administration nothing like it was permitted, because he is a great admirer of the animals and adopted the more effective way of having warrants issued for failing to pay the license. One small boy who read about the impending fate of the dogs already caught, cried all night over it. If everybody were as warm hearted as he, there would be no dog funerals in Paducah tomorrow.

POMPEII DESTROYED AGAIN

THE LARGEST CROWD OF THE WEEK OUT LAST NIGHT.

There were fully 4,500 people at the destruction of Pompeii last night and the exhibition was perfect. Prof. Stevens' balloon ascension was a great success, and his feat as the "human bomb" was greatly appreciated. There were hundreds of visitors and they all pronounced the production the greatest thing ever seen. The big balloon floated over to Illinois after the ascension, but will be recovered today.

A picture of Miss Anna Howwell, carnival queen, was given in fireworks, and the whole entertainment was such as everyone wants to see again. There will be another balloon ascension tonight, and the fireworks will be new and complete.

SHELBY BELL DEAD.

The funeral of Shelby Bell, colored, aged 51, was held yesterday from the residence at Ninth and Washington streets. He died Wednesday, and was a well known character.

FELL THIRTY FEET

Newton Shoulder Badly Hurt This Morning.

Fell While Carrying Water to the Workmen Three Stories Up.

Newton Shoulder, age 43, a small boy employed at the new Rhodes-Burford building on North Popple street near Broadway, as water boy, had a narrow escape from death this morning while carrying a bucket of water to the workmen on the third floor.

The little fellow was walking on the rafters when his foot slipped and threw him off. He fell the entire distance from the top of the building, 30 feet or more, striking a rafter as he descended. This stayed his fall somewhat but he was rendered unconscious by the shock.

Dr. Jeff D. Robertson was summoned and administered medical aid to the youth. A leg was badly lacerated and the boy was painfully bruised about the body. No bones were broken but the little fellow is suffering from concussion. His condition is not necessarily serious. He is a brother to Hugh Shoulder, the little fellow who was injured at the Rehkopf collar shop several weeks ago.

CIRCUS WANTS LOCATION.

METROPOLIS WANTS HINGLING BROS TO HAVE WINTER QUARTERS THERE.

Hingling Brothers' circus, which has had its winter quarters at Baraboo, Wis., wants to come further south, and a number of Illinois towns are trying to get it, including our neighbor, Metropolis. The others are DuQuoin, Marion, Mt. Vernon and Mt. Carmel.

THE DOG QUESTION.

(Communicated.)

It is decidedly wrong and demoralizing to offer a reward of 25 cents for each unlicensed dog caught by the boys of Paducah. It is nothing more nor less than a bribe—an inducement to steal. A quarter looks mighty large to the average small boy, much larger, in fact, than his conscience. It has a tendency to develop want latent dishonesty there may be in him, and cultivates cruelty in him as well. It places a premium on rascality, and the rising generation should be taught that there is a more honorable, and more honest, way of making a living than by catching dogs, many of which have been licensed, and surrendering them to the city for a quarter.

The writer overheard several of the youngsters talking, and one boasted of having taken up four dogs that he knew the tax had been paid on, and from which he himself removed the tags. He declared further that he would keep it up as long as the city's quarters lasted.

AFTER PADUCAH

A Cruiser to be Named in Honor of the Pride of the Purchase.

Congressman Wheeler Had Been at Work on It for Several Months.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler has for several months past been working to secure some unusual distinction for Paducah, his home town. He decided that it would be a good thing to have some battleship or cruiser for Paducah, and last January secured a virtual promise from the secretary of war that one of the new cruisers would be called "Paducah."

Congressman Wheeler then communicated the facts to a representative of The Sun who was in Washington but exacted a promise of secrecy until the proper time, on account of the efforts that would be made by the congressmen from larger and more important districts to secure the honor for their own districts were premature publication made.

Congressman Wheeler, however, has at last been successful, and it is announced from Washington that one of the two new cruisers of the "Wheeling" pattern will bear the name of "Paducah" when she is completed two years hence. The vessel will be about the size of the Nashville, which came to Cairo a few years ago, and Paducah can well feel proud of the honor, as she is the first city in Kentucky to be thus distinguished.

STOCK KILLED.

HEAVY CLAIMS PAID BY THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL ON STOCK.

The stock claims against the Illinois Central road on the Louisville district amount to more at present than in several years.

During the past month the claims against the company for cattle killed amounted to $1,511.30, more than any corresponding month since 1895. This is also within $10 of the claims against the road for the month of May 1901. The engineers have been cautioned to exercise more care in running their trains and to avoid striking cattle as much as possible. The division is better fenced at present than it has been in some time.

TRIPLE MURDER.

CHARGED AGAINST A MAN BY THE WIFE AND MOTHER OF THE VICTIMS.

Memphis, Tenn., June 27.—Ellen Thompson has confessed that O. J. Thompson, fisherman, killed her former husband at Caruthersville, Mo., and at the point of a shotgun forced her with her two children, twelve and four, to come down the river with him in a houseboat and that as a finale poisoned the children with iodine in order to hide his former crime.

Thompson is in jail at Ittley, Miss., just below here, and the woman is held for illegal cohabitation and as the state's chief witness.

THE BALLOON LOST.

Prof. Stephens, the aeronaut, was unable to find his balloon. He learned that it fell into the river near Brookport, and when an effort was made to tow it to shore, the basket was so covered but the balloon sank. A reward of $100 has been offered for its recovery.

Mr. Victor Van DeMale, the well known traveling man, returned from Memphis today at noon, after a successful trip through the South.

BANKS SUED

Auditor Files Suit Here for State Taxes for '98 and '99.

No State Taxes Paid by National Banks During Those Two Years.

T. O. Aibritton, auditor's agent of Kentucky, has filed suit in quarterly court against the three national banks in Paducah for state taxes for 1898 and 1899. The petition asks a judgment assessing and listing the value of the shares held by the stockholders on which to base the tax.

These suits are similar to those the auditor is filing all over the state against the national banks, and is a result of a decision that the method of assessing the banks was unconstitutional. As a result no assessment was made on any of the national banks during the two years mentioned, and no taxes asked or tendered.

The state claims that while there was no legal manner of assessment, the banks nevertheless owe the state taxes and is in this way to collect it.

The aggregate capital stock of the American German National is given in as $501,000 and the City National bank at $616,000 and the First National bank at $130,000 for the above two years.

HIS EYES DANCE.

WHEN HIS GOOD DRINK COMES.

A coffee that will nourish and furnish all the food required to rear a baby is evidently easy food for an adult to digest, and is especially applicable where ordinary coffee does not agree.

The wife of a Congregational minister gives an experience. "It is rather curious, the manner in which I came to adopt Postum for my baby. My husband used to be troubled greatly with bilious headaches and extreme nervousness. This was about five years ago. We concluded that coffee and tea were the cause of his troubles, and so gave Postum Food Coffee a trial. At first we did not like it because it was not boiled long enough, and seemed weak and tasteless, but after preparing it properly, and that is easy, we became very fond of it, and now can honestly say we prefer it to any coffee or tea.

"The old headaches and nervousness have disappeared, and we both enjoy very much better health.

"When one of our children was a year old he would not drink milk, so we tried him on Postum Coffee, and from the first he liked it and it agreed with him perfectly, so Postum has been his drink now for over four years. About ten months ago a baby boy came to our house. I was, of course, anxious to have good nourishment for him, and so drank from five to eight cups of Postum during the day. This with a little Grape Nuts Food each day was all the nourishment I took, and although the baby weighed only five pounds at birth, he weighed twelve and one-half pounds at three months and at four months fifteen pounds. Now he weighs twenty-three pounds.

"About three weeks ago the little fellow suddenly weaned himself, much to our surprise. I tried him on cow's milk, but he would not have it. I then tried a certain baby food, then another, but he would have neither. I felt very anxious about him, but remembering experimenting with another boy with Postum I gave him some, which he drank with the greatest relish. I agreed with him perfectly, so he lived on it for one week. Since then he has learned to eat a little other food, but he prefers Postum Coffee to anything else, and looks delighted when he sees me coming with it. I said the other morning, 'I wish the Postum company could see baby drink their coffee, it would certainly please them.' It agrees with him so perfectly that I shall continue to have him drink it to his heart's content. I don't like to have my name printed, but you can say I am a Cong. pastor's wife." WITH THE THEATRES.

The English Stock company last night reopened at The Kentucky after a three nights' lay-off. "The Bells," a three-act play preceded by a laughable sketch, "The Prima Donna," was presented to a fairly large audience, and revealed the company in some of its best work. In the sketch Mr. Leo Florence in one of his negro characters, Mr. Grigg, as an actor, and Mr. Harmon as a manager, with Miss Ford as the prima donna, the audience was entertained in a manner most creditable to the players. "The Bells" is strong and full of interest and affords Mr. James the opportunity of further displaying his talents in the character of "Matthias," the innkeeper haunted by a murder committed fifteen years before the story opens. Messrs. Harmon, as "Christian," Grigg as a ranger, Forsythe in double minor roles, and Seaton and Florence in character, with Miss Field, Miss Gale and Miss Stockton in the female roles, made up the cast. "Matthias" is the principal character and there is little in any of the female roles. The settings are fine, and this evening the performance will be much smoother than last night. The songs of Miss Alma Hayes made another hit. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week the company will put on "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands" for the benefit of Central Labor union, and Mr. H. J. Foppe, who was formerly on the stage, will appear in a prominent role.

La Belle park theatre stock company has again been strengthened by the addition of Miss Maude Phelps, who arrived here yesterday. This lady has a great reputation in the east in ingenue roles, having played the entire last season with the Brooklyn, N. Y., theater stock, and this season with the Corse Payton Stock in New York city—the repertoire stock that has made such a great success in a Gotham permanent attraction—and from whom Miss Phelps was secured for La Belle by reason of greater salary offered.

While the performances at La Belle park heretofore have been excellent, Manager Schaffer announces that his company has been so strengthened that the entertainments given will equal those of the largest city theatre.

There is to be a dance tonight to the general public at La Belle park under the auspices of the "La Belle Dancing club."

TAXES COMING IN RAPIDLY.

The taxpayers are coming in thick and fast this week, and Treasurer William Kraus has his hands full.

Yesterday over $4,000 was taken in, and today promises even greater collections. A great many pay only half the tax, and are allowed several weeks longer in which to make final settlement.

Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DIS-EASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes. The purest and best people are sometimes infected with this awful malady through handling the clothing, drinking from the same vessels, using the same toilet articles, or otherwise coming in contact with persons who have contracted it.

It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, sores and ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes ulcerated, the hair, eye brows and lashes fall out; the blood becoming more contaminated, copper colored spots and pustular eruptions and sores appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even destroys the bones.

S. S. S. is a Specific for this loathsome disease, and cures it even in the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that pollutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system. Unless you get this poison out of your blood it will ruin you, and bring disgrace and disease upon your children, for it can be transmitted from parent to child. S. S. S. contains no mercury or potash, but is guaranteed a strictly vegetable compound.

Write for our free home treatment book and learn all about Contagious Blood Poison. If you want medical advice give us a history of your case, and our physicians will furnish all the information you wish without any charge whatever.

ONLY TO GOVERNMENT.

DOES RAILROAD OWE DUTY WHEN MAIL MATTER IS LOST.

An interesting case has recently been decided by the United States court for the district of Minnesota, involving the liability of a railroad carrying mail for the government, for the loss of a valuable package. The case was entitled: "German State bank vs. Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway company" and it is alleged that the mailing of a valuable package to the plaintiff and its carriage by the railroad company to its station where the mail sack was delivered to the company's agent, whose duty it was to safely care for the mail sack during the night, the leaving of the station by the agent and the robbing of the sack during his absence constituted such lack of ordinary care on the part of the railroad as to make it liable for the loss.

The package was registered and contained $3,000. Judge Lochran holds the railroad company owed no duty except to the government; that it has no knowledge of the contents of the mail sacks nor as to who sent or who is entitled to receive letters; that it is not employed by such persons and owes to them severally and personally no duty whatever.

HOT WEATHER WEAKNESS.

If you feel fagged out, listless and lacking in energy, you are perhaps suffering from the debilitating effects of summer weather. These symptoms indicate that a tonic is needed that will create a healthy appetite, make digestion perfect, regulate the bowels and impart natural activity to the liver. This Herbine will do; it is a tonic, laxative and restorative. It. J. Freegard, Propr. Grand View Hotel, Cheney, Kansas, writes: "I have used Herbine for the last 12 years, and nothing on earth can beat it. It was recommended to me by Dr. Newton, Newton, Kansas." 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

CAIRO DIVISION.

OFFICIALS HERE TODAY TO MAKE ANOTHER INSPECTION.

Mr. O. M. Dnnu, the assistant general superintendent of southern lines of the I. C., arrived in this city this morning to make an inspection of the work done on the Cairo branch of the road.

Messrs. J. C. Dalley, superintendent of the Louisville division; T. A. Banks, trainmaster of the Louisville division and Engineer P. D. Fitzpatrick of the Louisville division, are here also and will make the trip with him. The work on the branch is being rapidly pushed during the favorable weather and it is the intention of the company to have it finished before the winter has set in.

A SPLENDID REMEDY.

Neuralgic pains, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatic pains yield to the penetrating influence of Ballard's Snow Liniment. It penetrates to the nerves and bone, and being absorbed into the blood, its healing properties are conveyed to every part of the body and effect some wonderful cures. Mr. D. F. Moore, agent Illinois Central, Milan, Tenn., states: I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism, backache, etc., in my family. It is a splendid remedy. We could not do without it." 25c, 50c and $1 at DuBois Kolb and Co.

WETS WIN.

SALOONS ARE NOW SPRINGING UP IN TRIGG COUNTY.

The local option election held in the Trigg Furnace, Trigg county, precinct, resulted in a victory for the "wets" by a majority of 18. The vote stood 22 to 40. Rock Castle is in the precinct, and two or three saloons will be opened up at that place within a few days. The stub book and ballots of the election were burned by mistake of the officers, but this will not affect the legality of the election as a certificate of the result was made out and returned to the board.

"A Study In Scarlet"

BY CONAN DOYLE

to my breakfast. "I see that you have read it, since you have marked it. I don't deny that it is smartly written. It irritates me, though. It is evidently the theory of some armchair lounge who evolves all these neat little paradoxes in the seclusion of his own study. It is not practical. I should like to see him clapped down in a third class carriage on the Underground and asked to give the trams of all his fellow travelers. I would lay a thousand to one against him."

"You would lose your money," Sherlock Holmes remarked calmly. "As for the article, I wrote it myself."

"You!"

"Yes, I have a turn both for observation and for deduction. The theories which I have expressed there, and which appear to you to be so chimerical, are really extremely practical, so practical that I depend upon them for my bread and cheese."

"And how?" I asked involuntarily.

"Well, I have a trade of my own. I suppose I am the only one in the world. I am a consulting detective, if you can understand what that is. Here in London we have lots of government detectives and lots of private ones. When these fellows are at fault, they come to me, and I manage to put them on the right scent. They lay all the evidence before me, and I am generally able, by the help of my knowledge of the history of crime, to set them straight. There is a strong family resemblance about misdeeds, and if you have all the details of a thousand at your finger ends it is odd if you can't unravel the thousand and first. Lestrade is a well known detective. He got himself into a fog recently over a forgery case, and that was what brought him here."

"And these other people?"

"They are mostly sent out by private inquiry agencies. They are all people who are in trouble about something and want a little enlightening. I listen to their story, they listen to my comments, and then I pocket my fee."

"But do you mean to say," I said, "that without leaving your room you can unravel some knot which other men can make nothing of, although they have seen every detail for themselves?"

"Quite so. I have a kind of intuition that way. Now and again a case turns up which is a little more complex. Then I have to bustle about and see things with my own eyes. You see, I have a lot of special knowledge which I apply to the problem and which facilitates matters wonderfully. These rules of deduction laid down in that article which aroused your scorn are invaluable to me in practical work. Observation with me is second nature. You appeared to be surprised when I told you, on our first meeting, that you had come from Afghanistan."

"You were told, no doubt."

"Nothing of the sort. I knew you came from Afghanistan. From long habit the train of thought ran so swiftly through my mind that I arrived at the conclusion without being conscious of intermediate steps. There were such steps, however. The train of reasoning ran: 'Here is a gentleman of a military type, but with the air of a military man, clearly an army doctor, then. He has just come from the tropics, for his face is dark, and that is not the natural tint of his skin, for his wrists are fair. He has undergone hardship and sickness, as his haggard face says clearly. His left arm has been injured. He holds it in a stiff and unnatural manner. Where in the tropics could an English army doctor have seen much hardship and got his arm wounded? Clearly in Afghanistan.' The whole train of thought did not occupy a second. I then remarked that you came from Afghanistan, and you were astonished."

"It is simple enough as you explain it," I said, smiling. "You remind me of Edgar Allan Poe's Dupin. I had no idea that such individuals did exist outside of stories."

Sherlock Holmes rose and lit his pipe. "No doubt you think that you are complimenting me in comparing me to Dupin," he observed. "Now, in my opinion, Dupin was a very inferior fellow. That trick of his of breaking in on his friends' thoughts with an appropos remark after a quarter of an hour's silence is really very showy and superficial. He had some analytical genius, no doubt, but he was by no means such a phenomenon as Poe appeared to imagine."

"Have you read Gaborini's works?" I asked.

"Does Lestrade come up to your idea of a detective?"

Sherlock Holmes smiledardonically. "Lestrade was a miserable bungler," he said in an angry voice. "He had only one thing to recommend him, and that was his energy. That book made me positively ill. The question was how to identify an unknown prisoner. I could have done it in 24 hours. Lestrade took six months or so. It might be made a textbook for detectives to teach them what to avoid."

I felt rather indignant at having two characters whom I had admired treated in this cavalier style. I walked over to the window and stood looking out into the busy street. "This fellow may be very clever," I said to myself, "but he is certainly very conceited."

"There are no crimes and no criminals in these days," he said querulously. "What is the use of having brains in our profession? I know well that I have it in me to make my name famous. No man lives or has ever lived who has brought the same amount of study and of natural talent to the detection of crime which I have done. And what is the result? There is no crime to detect, or at most some bungling villainy, with a motive so transparent that even a Scotland Yard official can see through it."

I was still annoyed at his impudent style of conversation. I thought it best to change the topic.

"I wonder what that fellow is looking for?" I asked, pointing to a stalwart, plainly dressed individual who was walking slowly down the other side of the street, looking anxiously at the numbers. He had a large blue envelope in his hand and was evidently the bearer of a message.

"You mean the retired sergeant of marines," said Sherlock Holmes.

"Brig and bonnet!" thought I to myself. "He knows that I cannot verify his guess."

The thought had hardly passed through my mind when the man whom we were watching caught sight of the number on our door and ran rapidly across the roadway. We heard a loud knock, a deep voice below and heavy steps ascending the stairs.

"For Mr. Sherlock Holmes," he said, stepping into the room and handing my friend the letter.

Here was an opportunity of taking the conceit out of him. He little thought of this when he made that random shot. "May I ask, my lad," I said blandly, "what your trade may be?"

"Commissionaire, sir," he said gruffly. "Uniform away for repairs."

"And you were?" I asked, with a slightly malicious glance at my companion.

"A sergeant, sir, Royal Marine Light Infantry, sir. No answer? Right, sir." He clicked his heels together, raised his hand in a salute and was gone.

CHAPTER III.

I confess that I was considerably startled by this fresh proof of the practical nature of my companion's theories. My respect for his powers of analysis increased wonderfully. There still remained some lurking suspicion in my mind, however, that the whole thing was a prearranged episode, intended to dazzle me, though what earthly object he could have in taking me in was past my comprehension. When I looked at him, he had finished reading the note, and his eyes had assumed the vacant, lackluster expression which showed mental abstraction.

"How in the world did you deduce that?" I asked.

"Deduce what?" said he petulantly.

"Why, that he was a retired sergeant of marines."

"I have no time for trifles," he replied brusquely; then, with a smile: "Excuse my rudeness. You broke the thread of my thoughts, but perhaps it is as well. So you actually were not able to see that that man was a sergeant of marines?"

"No, indeed."

"It was easier to know it than to explain why I know it. If you were asked to prove that two and two make four, you might find some difficulty, and yet you are quite sure of the fact. Even across the street I could see a great blue anchor tattooed on the back of the fellow's hand. That smacked of the sea. He had a military carriage, however, and regulation side whiskers. There we have the marine. He was a man with some amount of self importance and a certain air of command. You must have observed the way in which he held his head and swung his cane, a steady, respectable, middle aged man, too, on the face of him, all facts which led me to believe that he had been a sergeant."

"Wonderful!" I ejaculated.

"Commonplace," said Holmes, though I thought from his expression that he was pleased at my evident surprise and admiration. "I said just now that there were no criminals. It appears that I am wrong. Look at this!" He threw up over the note which the commissionaire had brought.

"Why," I cried as I cast my eye over it, "this is terrible!"

"It does seem to be a little out of the common," he remarked calmly. "Would you mind reading it to me aloud?"

This is the letter which I read to him:

"Gregson is the smartest of the Scotland Yarders," my friend remarked. "He and Lestrade are the pick of a bad lot. They are both quick and energetic, but conventional, shockingly so. They have their knives into one another too. They are as jealous as a pair of professional beauties. There will be some fun over this case if they are both put upon the scent."

I was amazed at the calm way in which he ripped on. "Surely there is not a moment to be lost," I cried. "Shall I go and order you a cab?"

"I am not sure about whether I shall go. I am the most incredibly lazy devil that ever stood in shoe leather—that is, when the fit is on me, for I can be spry enough at times."

"Why, it is just such a chance as you have been longing for."

"My dear fellow, what does it matter to me? Supposing I unravel the whole matter, you may be sure that Gregson, Lestrade & Co. will pocket all the credit. That comes of being an unofficial personage."

"But he begs you to help him."

"Yes. He knows that I am his superior and acknowledges it to me, but he would cut his tongue out before he would owe it to any third person. However, we may as well go and have a look. I shall work it out on my own hook. I may have a laugh at them, if I have nothing else. Come on!"

He hustled on his overcoat and bustled about in a way that showed that an energetic fit had superseded the apathetic one.

"Get your hat," he said.

"You wish me to come?"

"Yes, if you have nothing better to do." A minute later we were both in a hansom, driving furiously for the Brixton road.

It was a foggy, cloudy morning, and a dan colored veil hung over the houses, looking like the reflection of the mud colored streets beneath. My companion was in the best of spirits and prattled away about Cremona fiddles and the difference between a Stradivarius and an Amati. As for myself, I was silent, for the dull weather and the melancholy business upon which we were engaged depressed my spirits.

"You don't seem to give much thought to the matter in hand," I said at last, interrupting Holmes' musical disquisition.

"No data yet," he answered. "It is a capital mistake to theorize before you have all the evidence. It biases the judgment."

"You will have your data soon," I remarked, pointing with my finger. "This is the Brixton road, and that is the house, if I am not very much mistaken."

"So it is. Stop, driver, stop!" We were still a hundred yards or so from it, but he insisted upon our alighting, and we finished our journey upon foot.

No. 3 Lauriston Gardens was an illomened and minatory look. It was one of four which stood back some little way from the street, two being occupied and two empty. The latter looked out with three tiers of vacant, melancholy windows, which were blank and drab, save that here and there a "To let" card had developed like a catnap on the bleared panes. A small garden, sprinkled over with a scattered eruption of sickly plants, separated each of these houses from the street and was traversed by a narrow pathway, yellowish in color and consisting apparently of a mixture of clay and gravel.

The whole place was very slopely from the rain which had fallen through the night. The garden was bounded by a three foot brick wall, with a fringe of wood rails upon the top, and against this wall was leaning a stalwart police constable, surrounded by a small knot of loafers, who craned their necks and strained their eyes in the vain hope of catching some glimpse of the proceedings within.

I had imagined that Sherlock Holmes would at once have hurried into the house and plunged into a study of the mystery. Nothing appeared to be farther from his intention. With an air of nonchalance, which, under the circumstances, seemed to me to border upon affectation, he lounged up and down the pavement and gazed vacantly at the ground, the sky, the opposite houses and the line of railings. Having finished his scrutiny, he proceeded slowly down the path, or rather down the fringe of grass which flanked the path, keeping his eyes riveted upon the ground. Twelve he stopped, and once I saw him smile and heard him utter an exclamation of satisfaction. There were many marks of footsteps upon the wet, clayey soil, but since the police had been coming and going over it I was unable to see how my companion could hope to learn anything from it. Still I had had such ex-

TIME EXTENDED

Bids to Close July 10th Instead of the 5th.

The Board Decides Not to Allow Any-one Who Desires to Bid on Work.

There was a meeting of the board of public library trustees yesterday afternoon to consider the advisability of extending the time for opening the bids for erecting the building.

The trustees had previously decided to limit the competition to eight contractors, thus shutting out everybody who desired to bid on the work except a few they favored. This caused dissatisfaction, and the board met yesterday to reconsider the question. It was decided not to open the competition, but to limit it to those contractors already selected, Messrs. Hyrd, Karnes, Lockwood and Davis, of the city, Anderson and Co., St. Louis, and Forbes Brothers, Hopkinsville.

The board agreed, however, to extend the time for closing the bids from July 5 to 10, in order to give the contractors more time in which to prepare their figures.

NEW CADET.

POLLARD WHITE OF CADIZ APPOINTED BY CONGRESSMAN WHEELER.

Pollard White, eldest son of Mrs. Cordie D. White of Cadiz, received a telegram from Congressman Wheeler announcing his appointment as a cadet to the naval academy at Annapolis. He left at once for Annapolis, where he will enter a preparatory school, and will take the mental examination the 12th of August and the physical examination about the 15th of September. If he successfully passes these examinations he will at once enter the academy for a four years' term, to be followed by four years' service in the navy.

THE STATE BANKS.

A REBATE TO BE RECEIVED UNDER THE STATUTE.

Frankfort, Ky., June 27.—Of 297 state banks operating in Kentucky 149 will receive a rebate this year from the state under the act of the late legislature to reimburse these institutions for excess of taxes paid under the Hewitt law prior to 1898. The other 148 institutions were organized after the Hewitt law became operative and will this year pay taxes as heretofore. Auditor Conlier has sent out notices to these latter to report and pay.

WORK ON SCHOOLS

IT WILL BEGIN SHORTLY ON ALL THE BUILDINGS.

Work on the school buildings will begin in a few days. Chairman White, of the building committee, is thinking of taking representatives of the press to make a tour of the buildings and note their condition, and then make another visit after the work is complete, showing the improvements secured by the expenditure of the $12,000 appropriated by the board.

Miss Aline Bagby has returned in Paducah from a visit to Miss Minnie Elliott. —Mayfield Messenger.
